Chapter 1 by Arynn Kirkham

Lillian sighs as she puts away her wedding dress in the back of her closet. It was a beautiful wedding and honeymoon. She couldn't have asked for something more blissful and peaceful. Derrick was the best, he helped her clean, was loving and sweet, everything should had dreamed about. How could she have gotten this lucky? Everything was perfect.

Chapter 2 by R

Lillian walked in to the kitchen, wearing the casual attire of sweats and a loose t-shirt, where Derrick was cleaning up the bloodstains on the floor.

"Aww, babe, you don't have to do that for me!" Lillian says, embracing her husband as he goes still, holding the mop firm in his hands.

"You didn't have to kill them." He says quietly.

"I know that this hurts you, but I was doing it for us." Lillian reminds him, pulling him in to a warm embrace. "Oh Derrick, you're just so kind. You're lucky that you have me to look out for you."

Derrick doesn't respond to that. He just looks at her. He's been so quiet, ever since the night of the wedding. Oh, she knows that he'll wait to talk to her. Married life always ends up changing people, after all.

"I'm going to go out for a bit, hun." Lillian says, pulling her husband in for a passionate kiss. He doesn't kiss back, but he's probably just tired. He's been working so hard. He was always so considerate.

She walks to the door, grabbing her coat and keys, and headed out side. Before that, she made sure to set the alarm system, and lock the door.

After all, it wouldn't do if someone got in and hurt Derrick, now would it?
